

What's New

Ain't nun new on the news
No point in watching it, it's the same thing to view
New names old story caught in different places
Hard pill to swallow cuz of what stays the same with their faces

The boys in black and blue
Beat blacks till they're blue
And that if we're lucky not singing funeral blues

We ask for change but what's changing in this era
2021 cops either get caught off guard or on camera
And depending on the angle that the picture is taken
Officers are offered a slap on the wrist for the situation they placed in

So why do you think we protest?
We can't afford for progress to be complacent
We want to push the envelope on reform to form better relations
Because 911 shouldn't pick sides and help some
I shouldn't be afraid when I've done nothing wrong
And BLM shouldn't be a threat or a company trend
So instead of pretending of social acting, let's call to action

The police narrative will switch up soon as they fix up
A few bad apples is too many for their job description
A badge shouldn't mean I can do bad with no consequences on my back
And sirens shouldn't mean violence is arriving

Let's do better so we can be better
Let's give the youth a truth where they feel safer
With times that feel fresher than a new taper
And racism be an issue of the past and not one of later

So as the present presents a presence of hope
The future can be more bout freedom with less to cope
To the point where love glows and hatred slows
Then we can rethink what's new about our potential growth
